1. The following air activity and aircraft were observed at Neubrandenburg-Trollenhagen airfield between 31 July and 23 August 1953:

31 July. About 10 p.m., a twin-engine monoplane with its position lights turning approached from the southwest and landed at the field.

3 August. At 6 a.m., a twin-engine monoplane took off, toward the southwest and landed again at 10 a.m.

4 August. Throughout the day, twin-engine monoplanes made local flights. Visibility was good.

6 to 8 August. MiG-15s were repeatedly seen aloft over the field.

12 to 14 August. There was intensive air activity by twin-engine monoplanes, including local flights and flights to areas southwest of the field.

17 to 23 August. There was little air activity by twin-engine monoplanes.

Comment. The present report does not indicate any change in the status of Neubrandenburg airfield. The five twin-engine monoplanes, probably Il-12s, observed at the field, have been stationed there since mid-May 1953. The increased quantity of bread which was to be required after 1 September, may indicate the retransfer back to the installation of the fighter regiment which moved to Puetnitz in mid-May 1953.
